More and more services for the profoundly and severely retarded are now being developed. This is not necessarily new, but there is special emphasis being placed on helping this special group. As an aid for people working with this level of retardate, this bibliography was compiled. This compilation was necessary since indexes do not list entries under degree of retardation -- yet this group, more than any other, requires special aids, skills, programs and services. Abstracts were scanned for mention of severe, profound, imbecile and idiot as a means of collecting citations. Regrettably, the medical literature could not be assembled due to lack of time and my own unfamiliarity with that phase of the subject.
